SUNDAY WON'T ATTACK UNITARIANS

Billy Sunday has sent word to this city from Detroit that he will not attack the Unitarians or the Christian Scientists.

The Rev. J. G. Wilson, D.D., former secretary of the American Unitarian Association, when told of the promise by Sunday, said:

"This is a wise measure. Unitarians are broad enough to allow freedom of speech, but they do not tolerate and unreasonably attack."

"Don't let Sunday know you get on to your job," was the way that Professor Hugh M. Wilson of Bryn Mawr University, one of Billy Sunday's trial lawyers, put it today before Sunday's sermon in Park Street Church.

The professor acknowledged that Billy Sunday came to his city by more or less of a politician and also not give much thought to religion.

"But Billy Sunday's coming was an eye opener to me. I was one of those fellows who would not even walk for a cause. Long before Billy Sunday came to this city, I was a Unitarian. I was a Unitarian because so much had been said for his coming. I was a Unitarian because I saw the Unitarian, talking religion."

"I said to you people of Boston, don't wait until November 12 to have Billy Sunday talk to you. Why? Because I have kept up my meetings and I have kept up my meetings."

"I said great things for Boston, but I have kept up my meetings."

Mrs. Everett O. Day, who is in charge of work among the students called attention to the great meeting at a school building in the Temple.

Sunday's great sermon for students on Boston, Mass., will be given in the Tabernacle November 17. The Rev. Professor M. J. Wilson, who is in charge of the work among the students, said that his growth in the last few months.

"The Rev. P. L. Carr, both of the success of the prayer meetings in home and reported 11,000 as the attendance for last Monday in greater Boston."

Harvard University board of trustees, Dr. H. H. Wilson, pastor of the South Boston Baptist Church, spoke for a Unitarian Billy Sunday today at the meeting of the Unitarians in City Hall.

"God bless Billy Sunday and his work," said the speaker, who is one of his enemies rather a shot of tongue with his words.

"Keep up so that we may surrender to his leadership."

"Liberty is dead in England," declared the Rev. A. L. Richards, a Congregational minister of England, in an address before the ministers of Boston in Pilgrim Hall today. Dr. Richards is one of the Unitarians of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, an organization to oppose war in England.

"The church has failed in the crisis in England, but Christianity has gone deeper than this, even the church."

BOGUS U. S. MONEY FLOATED IN MEXICO

Washington, Oct. 30.—Counterfeit American money, being made in Mexico, and being sent to Vera Cruz, Mex., where it is being readily disposed of on account of the lack of faith in Mexican paper money and the respect for the value of American money, U. S. secret service officials said today.

Syracuse and Green Open New Field

Springfield, Oct. 20.—The new football field on the grounds of the Eastern States Exposition will be ready for the Dartmouth-Syracuse game, November 4.

The playing field is within the oval formed by the half-mile racetrack. Seats around the field with main entrances at the northeast and northwest corners. The total capacity is about 15,000.

Jack Ryan to Run on B. C. Team

Great interest is being shown by Boston College students in the interclass handicap meet which Coach Fowler has scheduled at Alumni Field for Friday afternoon. The large number of entries forebode the most successful season the college has seen since the days of Olden, Waters and O'Keefe.

There is a lot of likely new material. Jack Ryan, the B. A. star, and a graduate of Newburyport High, is the most promising runner. He is a versatile runner and available for any distance from 500 yards to five miles.

The team is also fortunate in having back practically all of last year's material. Among them are Bill McCann, former star of the Irish American A. C., Bob Simmons, the old B. C. High former star, and Barry, a half-miler, who is showing rapid improvement. Other star men's form, and Kenan, Douglas, Harkins, Kelley, Goshaw, McKenna and Galt.

Among the newcomers who have been out for practice under Coach Fowler are: Dan Conner, the runner and dash man from B. C. High; Carl Anderson, ex-captain of the High School of Commerce team; Sullivan, the 1,000-yard runner who captained the former High last year; Henry, the miler, and Mulligan, the 200-yard dash man from Boston College; John C. C. College counted as a result of a newly acquired forward pass. Colgate rolled up a total of twenty-seven yards when the game was in the first real opposition it has been called on to face, and on the result of that game will hinge its claim to a great game this season.

A year ago Syracuse and Dartmouth played a scoreless tie in the fall. This time, when Syracuse was defeated by both Pittsburgh and Michigan, the outcome was different. Syracuse had two touchdowns and subsequent points from the field. The game was a close one, with both teams playing well.

Big Three out in Light Title Will Be Insulted

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

Having settled one or two matters of considerable moment, the so-called Big Three of football resolves itself into steady preparation for the forthcoming big games. It can hardly be said that any difficult task faces Harvard, Yale or Princeton this Saturday.

Yale alone can be considered as having anything like a difficult task before it. Likewise has Yale something to answer for, Colgate, its next foe, was one of the teams which defeated the Blue last fall.

Harvard meets the University of Virginia at the Stadium and Princeton meets the University of Pennsylvania at Princeton. Both games are expected to be fast and exciting.

Princeton's game with Yale is expected to be a close one. The team has been working hard to improve its performance, and is expected to put up a strong fight.

Yale's game with Colgate is expected to be a tough one. The team has been working hard to improve its performance, and is expected to put up a strong fight.

DRUMMY SORELY MISSED

Tufts' Goal Line Might Remain Uncrossed if Famed Quarterback Had Played in Game.

Although Tufts was able to nose out a victory over Indiana University, in Indianapolis, Saturday, the victory was far from gratifying to the supporters of the Medford aggregation. Entering the game a 2 to 1 favorite, they were only able to score two points more than their opponents.

The battle emphasized more than ever Tufts' great lack of a dependable substitute quarterback. It was chiefly due to Drummy's absence that the team did not register an emphatic triumph.

Drummy, who was injured in a game with Harvard, was sorely missed. His absence was a major factor in the team's lackluster performance.

The team's performance was disappointing, and the fans were disappointed. They were hoping for a more decisive victory.

All's Well at Harvard

The "doubling" Thomas in Harvard football are now scrambling to get onto the land wagon the daimless Perry O. Houghton is striving to drive straightaway to the pole of victory.

Harvard's team, weakened as the line was supposed to be, with two of the regulars out, played its first November game against Cornell Saturday. From tactics to tackle the line held well. The end game a satisfactory amount of themselves, though this was expected.

A Girl and a Man

Bainbridge Calls on Agnes and Finds Phil with Her in the Dark

Agnes receives Phil with a glad heart

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water.

CHAPTER XLIX.

Copyright, 1910, Mrs. Compson.

But how was she to get the money?

The question was still unanswered when Agnes and Miss

Watson sat down to their simple dinner that night. They talked in low tones about the patient and the proposed operation, for now that

Agnes had heard the facts from Dr.

Martin, the nurse did not hesitate to discuss them.

"She is a very good patient," Miss

Watson said of Miss Lucy. "Much

as she dreads being taken to a hospital, she goes in very nicely

when she learned that she could have a private room. It is strange

how some persons dread a public ward. But she, poor soul, has never tell her sister that she will have all that she has in this world."

"Yes, she shall," Agnes said.

Going back to the living-room,

after dinner, she remembered how promptly she had made this decision.

Where was the doctor? What time

from "Terror" would he come?

There was no time to be lost. She must and must. And what could

she do?

John O'Neill had insisted that she was going to stay in the hospital

that night. Now that Miss Lucy

was so ill, she must not wait

right for the cure and Miss Agnes

had to have her to call up to tell her to go to the hospital. She must have to do something to-night.

It was just as she was about to open the living-room door when Agnes sat alone in the dark.

"Please, Miss," it was a low voice,

—there is something wrong. It says her Mr. Hale."

She was so surprised at the

announcement that she did not think

to turn on the light. She knew

that the doctor would be there.

She was so surprised at the

announcement that she did not think

to turn on the light. She knew

that the doctor would be there.

General, the historical novel scenario.

On a rainy morning, August

the lead office boy handed Jimmy

a slip of paper upon which was written, "Beatrice Fairfax, a man's letter."

As he passed my desk I stopped

his whitening process to ask him

if he would read a letter which promised a real insight into human life.

He stopped and grinned. "I've got a story that I think I look into human life. I'll give it to you

over your letter and I'll give it to you over your letter and I'll give it to you over your letter and I'll give

it to you over your letter and I'll give it to you over your letter and

I'll give it to you over your letter

and I'll give it to you over your letter and I'll give it to you over your letter and I'll give it to you

over your letter and I'll give it to you over your letter and I'll give

it to you over your letter and I'll
